

Abstract of the disclosure

A business model is provided for the sharing of the real estate of a graphical user interface for the representation of third party's applications available on a device controlled through the graphical user interface. A control user interface element is displayed on the graphical user interface in association with the application. The provider of the application is charged based on the duration of the display of the element in association with the application.